Los Angeles Herald

SUNDAY, JUNE 20, 1875.

DR. J. E. FULTON of Downey City was elected by the Independents a delegate to their State Convention, but he will none of it, and has published a letter in which he says that as the Independent party has proved a failure and the Republicans persist in the theory that the war is not yet over, he cannot act with either organization. DR. FULTON expresses the sentiments of thousands of good and patriotic citizens.

THE Express does not like our Latin nor the accredited authorship. There is some little difference between our version and the text book; but we will be honest enough to assume the responsibility of our ignorance, and not do like the editor of the Express when he wrote VASQUEZ and meant CHAVIS, and placed the centennial anniversary of the battle near Concord, Massachusetts, at Concord, New Hampshire, to make the printer responsible for our mistakes.

THIS morning we print a bill drawn up by Judge LINDLEY of Monte Vista, which embodies his views as to the most practical plan for the extermination of that destructive pest—the squirrel. Certainty something must be done in the way of protecting the farmers against rodent, and it is probable the Judges ideas are as good as any that can be suggested. We shall revert to the subject more in extenso in due time. Jobt

More Useless Expense.

In common with the majority of the people of this city, the HERALD does not entertain a very high opinion of the executive ability of the Common Council, and we always regret to see that august body moving in a matter that may cost the city money. The Council ring is not more noted for its penny wisdom than its pound foolishness. It is, perhaps, well to call over small bills, but it is not well to throw away hundreds of dollars in attorney's fees in suits that never should have been commenced and never can be won. The city has just lost a suit with the proprietors of the Feliz ranch by which a large sum of money has been already thrown away, and if it is followed up on appeal, much more will be wasted. When we come to sift this Feliz ranch water suit business, we find that it amounts to just nothing, so far as goes the claim that it shortens the city's supply of water. We imagine that if all Los Angeles river was turned out on the Feliz ranch, that twenty-four hours after, substantially the same volume of water as before would be found in the channel at any point three miles below the ranch. Yet, because some body thinks that water turned out of a river channel never gets back, the tax-payers of Los Angeles are made to pay the expenses of a suit that cannot be won in any honest Court in the world. Now comes another absurd proposition, which, if carried out, will cost the city money and defeat. Some time ago parties obtained a franchise to lay down a street railroad through certain streets. The kind of track or road to be put down is not named in the franchise, and after due and satisfactory trial the holders of the charter decided to build the Prismoidal or one track road—a road which, being as easily crossed by teams and offering as little obstruction as any street railroad, is as little objectionable as any street railroad can be. But those wise Solomons who meet fifty-two times per year oftener than is good for the city, have taken a dislike to the Prismoidal and at their last meeting they, by a unanimous vote, resolved, first, that it should not be built, and, second, that if the company commence building it, suit should be begun at once against them. Now, this is worse than boy's play. The company will commence building the road, and the only way the Solomons can stop them is by injunction. Then follows bonds for damages and a suit, in which the city will come out second best, with a long bill of costs and attorney's fees, all to be paid out of the taxpayer's pocket. Oh, weak and impotent Council! What a pity it is the law does not compel you to pay all costs of suits you do not win out of your individual resources.

A Few Facts.

The readers of the HERALD need not be told that it has always advocated the building of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. From the first inception of the enterprise it has pointed out the advantages which Los Angeles would secure by pushing it to completion at the earliest possible moment. The HERALD used every possible argument to induce the people of this city and county to meet the demand of Senator JONES and his associates by subscribing the $300,000 stock to the road. The stock was taken by those who believed they were aiding in the construction of a railroad which would add to the wealth, population and general prosperity not only of this city but of the entire valley. Up to this point the HERALD was the ardent advocate of the road, but when it discovered that the money which citizens subscribed to secure the building of a railroad was made to appear as the first installment on a town lot speculation which in the magnitude of its proportions and the utter groundlessness of its vaunted advantages surpassed those described by DICKENS in MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT, and that in order to present this mammoth fraud to the public in the most favorable light Los Angeles is described as a place which, being without commercial advantages, must of necessity succumb to and be absorbed by the "coming city" of Santa Monica, the HERALD exposed the game and pointed out as a fact that cannot be set aside or covered over, that in place of the road, or with it we were, if the grandiloquent advertisements may be relied on, threatened with a town-building scheme which though in all probability could never succeed, would temporarily and to a serious extent affect the prosperity of our city. For this defense of our residents—for this warning to those who might otherwise be induced to part with their money for town lots on a beach where wind and wave will never permit a town to grow, the HERALD is denounced by the emissaries of the "coming city" bubble as the opponent and enemy of the railroad. We do not fear permanent injury to Los Angeles through the misrepresentations of those who boast that they will build up a city of one hundred thousand inhabitants—if they can sell lots enough. With those not familiar with the topography of this valley, our city will sustain temporary injury, but she will survive it and go on growing and prospering in the future as she has in the past. Santa Monica is a pleasant watering place resort—a nice place to visit in the hot days of Summer and a nice place to keep away from during the remainder of the year. It is not what will be done there, but what the unscrupulous speculators are trying to deceive the people into believing will be done there, that the HERALD denounces.

Further Considered.

The question is asked, "is irrigation healthy?" We will, in a few words, proceed to state again that under our system it most certainly is not. If any one will take the pains to examine our zanzas when the water is drawn off, or when they are being cleaned out, the pestiferous deposit of decayed matter the effluvia of sulphurated hydrogen gas, will satisfy himself that were it not for our pure atmosphere renewed every second by our foreign trade winds from the Pacific, how destructive it must be to animal economy; besides this, the irrigators are not compelled to provide their fields with drainage conduits at lower lands, as is the case in every other civilized country, that boast not of a tithe of our intelligence. The ground is supposed to be surcharged with water, and in all hollow places to remain in lagunas and run off on the streets and highways, there to stagnate and fill the air with noxious vapor, to say nothing of impeding travel and discomforts. Such practice in Italy and Spain would immediately be followed with heavy fine, imprisonment, and in the discretion of the Magistracy of Water, incur forfeiture of water forever. Let not our irrigators think because they claim exclusive right to it from Spain that they are free from laws that may be passed by this Sovereign State, the successor of that power. This is the law of the case, and the practice is still followed and adhered to. In making grants, we do not thereby rest in the grantee the right of property in water, but only the right to use it, either in irrigation or for hydraulics. The right of property shall remain as heretofore among the rights appertaining to the crown." This I fancy is well understood by lawyers and judges, and will long be properly defined by law, and future decisions. The city of Los Angeles was regarded as heretofore among the rights appertaining to the crown." This I fancy is well understood by lawyers and judges, and will long be properly defined by law, and future decisions. The city of Los Angeles was regarded in the same light. The engineering of our water supply has been most thoroughly accomplished without costing the city copper cent. The heights ascertained and even the spots proper for reservoirs definitely pointed out, anything new in that direction will only be a useless expenditure. What we want is money and a practical man, like CHARLEY MILES, to put the water in such conduits as will avoid waste by absorption and evaporation, have them so arranged that they will run Summer, Winter, Autumn and Spring, and with such fall as will guarantee their cleaning themselves. During the Winter months the pipes will be constantly occupied in filling reservoirs at higher lands, to be called on when wanted, and also filling reservoirs from here to the sea. The rents will pay interest on $1,500,000, if that amount be necessary to put our water in a condition to yield its full measure of usefulness. Let these figures not frighten us. If it takes this, it will be the best investment ever made. If we create wealth we will have ships and railroads to approach us to gather their stipends. We will have people to abide with us. We will have health, wealth and prosperity, and the glory of setting an example to the other communities of the State. This is the question of questions, and should be handled and discussed in friendship and coolness, and let the views of all be listened to with patience, and when we have sufficiently discussed the matter in the press, let us meet together in council and advise intelligently what we shall do.

Respectfully,
CHARLES LINDLEY.

AN ACT PROVIDING FOR THE DESTRUCTION OF SQUIRRELS.

The people of the State of California represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Each school district out-

To the Patrons of Husbandry in the State of California.

MONTE VISTA, June 18th, 1875.

Although not a member of your order, I recognize it as an organized body, ready for united action, capable of accomplishing much pertaining to the subject of agriculture in cases where an individual would be practically unseen, unheard and unfelt. So recognizing your organization, I earnestly solicit your efforts and definite action in procuring the enactment of an efficient law for the destruction of squirrels. I take the liberty of addressing you upon this subject for the reasons:

1. Because I am a personal sufferer from the intrusions and devastations of these pests.

2. Because of the interest that should be taken, as a question of economy among producers and of one of great public concern.

3. Because it specially pertains to the objects and jurisdiction of your order and because you have organized power that can, at once, be made effective.

The first reason, perhaps, is not very good taste, as an individual cannot make his own losses or inconveniences pretext for appealing to a public organization, like yours, to aid in procuring legislative relief for the destruction of squirrels, viz:

On the last Saturday of the months of October, November, December, January, February and March.

Sec. 2. The places and time of rendezvous on each of said days will be at the residence of the Squirrel Master at 7 A. M. The place of meeting may be changed by a public notice from the Squirrel Master published by posting ten hand-bills for three days in twenty days next preceding the time of meeting. There may be different places of meeting indicated in the notice when the Squirrel Master finds it proper to divide the squirrel force into Squirrel Squads under different deputies.

Sec. 3. The squirrel force shall be under the direction of the Squirrel Master, who shall prescribe and cause to be printed the regulations therefor until the Board of Supervisors shall prescribe such regulations for the county at large, which they are empowered to do.

Sec. 4. Any person liable to turn out under this Act who does not turn out or furnish a substitute or commute his liability is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 5. Any member of the squirrel force who disobeys a lawful order of the Squirrel Master or violates the prescribed regulations, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 6. The squirrel tax and the commutation money must be paid into the County Treasury as a special squirrel fund, and must be drawn out on warrants signed by the Squirrel Master.

Sec. 7. The squirrel force must be under the direction of the Squirrel Master, who shall prescribe and cause to be printed the regulations therefor until the Board of Supervisors shall prescribe such regulations for the county at large.

Sec. 8. The squirrel force shall be under the direction of the Squirrel Master, who shall prescribe and cause to be printed the regulations therefor until the Board of Supervisors shall prescribe such regulations for the county at large, which they are empowered to do.

Sec. 9. Any person liable to turn out under this Act who does not turn out or furnish a substitute or commute his liability is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 10. Any person liable to turn out under this Act who does not turn out or furnish a substitute or commute his liability is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 11. Any member of the squirrel force who disobeys a lawful order of the Squirrel Master or violates the prescribed regulations, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 12. The squirrel tax and the commutation money must be paid into the County Treasury as a special squirrel fund, and must be drawn out on warrants signed by the Squirrel Master.

Sec. 13. The Squirrel Master must purchase all necessary things to be employed in the destruction of squirrels and employ an express and aid in the transportation of such things. In all sparsely settled districts he may in his discretion hire persons not liable to duty under this Act to assist the squirrel force on the Saturday mentioned.

Sec. 14. The Squirrel Master shall keep books showing the number, names and time of service of all persons under his direction and also all substitutes and commutation money received and the names of all persons liable who failed to turn out, and all expenditures on account of the squirrel fund, and the number of all vouchers for such expenditure, and he shall report under oath to the Board of Supervisors within ten days after each of said Saturdays, making in his report a full exhibit concerning the requirements above mentioned and of all his official proceedings. The Board of Supervisors shall audit and settle all his accounts, when just and supported by proper vouchers.

Sec. 15. The Squirrel Master and his deputies shall have such compensation as the Supervisors may prescribe.

III. Give the Commissioner or Squirrel Master, power to call out all persons in the District, five or six days in a year for the destruction of these animals.

Any law upon this subject (or any other) must be prepared with care. A squirrel law should be the product of the combined capacity of the experienced farmer or squirrel killer, who has well observed their habits, tastes, and best modes of destruction. The chemist who can give scientific directions to the practical experience of the farmer or squirrel killer, to poisons, proportions, mixing, etc., and the lawyer who can give legal certainty in expression, and provide the powers and penalties necessary to secure efficiency.

In the hurry of the moment I have made a rough draft of an Act, very crude of course, in all things. I submit to you for your consideration, hoping that it may serve to call forth suggestions, discussions, and finally the preparation of some law upon this subject.

Somebody must begin, and begin crudely too, in moving for a new law upon a new and difficult subject for legislation. You will therefore look upon this draft as merely introducing the subject more in detail, which is more useful than a general expression of the opinion that squirrels are great pests.

If the Patrons will take hold of this matter, communicate with and procure the cooperation of the local and State Granges, there is no doubt but that an efficient law can be prepared which would command the immediate action of the Legislature, if presented in due form by a committee of the State Grange.

One thing is very certain—that nothing short of a vigorous law which shall secure the uniform, undivided and simultaneous efforts of the whole farming community, over the whole State, or large districts and just contributions from the owners of large estates being used for cattle and sheep husbandry, will even exterminate these marauding enemies.

A Blaze in Dublin.

DUBLIN, June 19, 5 A. M.—A fire broke out at midnight in the excise bonded stores containing a large amount of whisky. There were several tremendous explosions. The flames spread rapidly to the adjoining buildings. Vast crowds surrounded the burning districts. The mob rolled barrels of whisky from the stores and helped themselves. The police were called out to preserve peace and order. The burning liquors carried the flames in every direction. The water was useless. The fire brigade tore up the pavements and attempted to smother the fire with sand. They succeeded in isolating it. Five thousand casks of liquor and thirty-five houses were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Gorham to the Front.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19th.—Quite a large audience assembled at Union Hall last night to hear George C. Gorham speak on the issues of the campaign. A. G. Abel, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, introduced the speaker. Gorham's address was mainly a defense of his own political record and of the platform adopted at the late convention at Sacramento. He scored the Central Pacific and enlarged upon the right and duty of the Legislature and Congress to regulate fares and freights. He attacked the Chronicle and other newspapers supporting the railroad on the one hand and the Call and Bulletin on the other, and waged a sort of general warfare on every one but himself and followers. His speech was well received by the audience, who were evidently in accord with the speaker.
